

```
1 package com.example.simpletodo;
2
3 import android.view.LayoutInflater;
4 import android.view.View;
5 import android.view.ViewGroup;
6 import android.widget.TextView;
7
8 import androidx.annotation.NonNull;
9 import androidx.recyclerview.widget.RecyclerView;
10
11 import java.util.List;
12
13 // Responsible for displaying data from the model
into a row in the recycler view
14 public class ItemsAdapter extends RecyclerView.
    Adapter<ItemsAdapter.ViewHolder> {
15
16     List<String> items;
17
18     public ItemsAdapter(List<String> items) {
19         this.items = items;
20     }
21
22     @NonNull
23     @org.jetbrains.annotations.NotNull
24     @Override
25     public ViewHolder onCreateViewHolder(@NonNull @
        org.jetbrains.annotations.NotNull ViewGroup parent
        , int viewType) {
26         // Use layout inflater to inflate a view 27         View todoView = LayoutInflater.from(parent.
            getContext()).inflate(android.R.layout.
            simple_list_item_1, parent, false);
28
29         // wrap it inside a View Holder and return it
30         return new ViewHolder(todoView);
31     }
32
33     // responsible for binding data to a particular
view holder
34     @Override
35     public void onBindViewHolder(@NonNull @org.
        jetbrains.annotations.NotNull ItemsAdapter.
```

```
35 ViewHolder holder, int position) {
36     // Grab the item at the position
37     String item = items.get(position);
38     // Bind the item to the specified view holder
39     holder.bind(item);
40 }
41
42 // Tells the RV how many items are in the list
43 @Override
44 public int getItemCount() {
45     return items.size();
46 }
47
48 // Container to provide easy access to views that represent each row of the list
49 class ViewHolder extends RecyclerView.
    ViewHolder {
50
51     TextView tvItem;
52
53     public ViewHolder(@NonNull @org.jetbrains. annotations.NotNull View itemView) {
54         super(itemView);
55         tvItem = itemView.findViewById(android.
            R.id.text1);
56     }
57
58     // update the view inside of the view
    holder with this data
59     public void bind(String item) {
60         tvItem.setText(item);
61     }
62 }
63 }
64
```